COMPUTERWORLD

INTRODUCTION

Computerworld | infocommunications magazine

Computerworld, the biweekly b2b magazine, which entered in it's 50th anniversary this year, is a market leader among Hungarian IT and infocommunication magazines.

As an observer and analyst of the ever-changing digital world, which is about to grow every day with new products and technologies, Computerworld supports managers and decision-makers responsible for the operation and development of infocommunication systems in their daily work with in-depth professional articles and analysis.

For leading IT professionals, CIOs, strategic decision-makers, this paper does not report on the current situation of trends from the perspective of vendors, but from professional users.
